

Contents

1. Introduction	8
2. Compete and campaign: Conceptualizing electoral politicization of migration and ethnic relations	17
2.1 Part of a system: Individual parties in party competition	19
2.1.1 Party goals: The tension between ideology and power	19
2.1.2 Spatial perspectives on party competition.....	24
2.2 Party politicization of migration and ethnic relations: An analytical framework	30
2.2.1 Toward an integrated model of politicization: Combining issues and positions.....	30
2.2.2 Politicization of migration and ethnic relations: Lessons from previous research	35
2.3 Electoral campaigning: The apex of political communication	42
2.3.1 The electoral arena as party environment	42
2.3.2 Electoral politicization and campaign consistency	46
3. Migration and ethnic relations in Austria: Opportunities and constraints in electoral politicization	54
3.1 Societal inputs for party competition. Empirical evidence from a reluctant country of immigration	55
3.1.1 Immigration and ethnic diversity: numerical evidence.....	57
3.1.2 Public opinion on migration and ethnic relations	68
3.2 Influencing party competition from within: The Austrian party system as a framework for party behavior	74
3.2.1 Political cleavages and party ideology	74
3.2.2 On success and failure: The party system in numerical terms	84
3.2.3 The need to share power: Coalition perspectives.....	90
3.2.4 Synopsis.....	96
4. Study design: Data and methods	98
4.1 Data selection and implementation of the study	98
4.2 Measuring party politicization	100
4.2.1 The concept and measurement of salience.....	100
4.2.2 Spatial positions and distance measurements of politicization	102
4.2.3 Parties' topical preferences: Issue dimensions and subtopics.....	105
4.2.4 Issue positions: Policy stances of political parties	109

5. Framing migration and ethnic relations: A qualitative exploration of discursive strategies	112
5.1 Framing and frame analysis: A general introduction.....	112
5.1.1 Roots and characteristics of the framing concept	112
5.1.2 Frame components in strategic political communication	115
5.2 Baselines of politicization: Framing of migration and ethnic relations	120
5.2.1 Liberal frames on migration and ethnic relations	120
5.2.2 Restrictive frames on migration and ethnic relations.....	125
5.2.3 Synopsis.....	129
6. The politicization of migration and ethnic relations: quantitative patterns of competition.....	131
6.1 The importance of emphasis: Issue salience	132
6.1.1 Issue evolution and establishment: Salience of migration and ethnic relations	132
6.1.2 Engage or refrain? Individual party strategies of issue emphasis..	134
6.1.3 Synopsis.....	142
6.2 The topical structure of competition: Issue dimensions and subtopics	143
6.2.1 What's the story about? Core themes of electoral debate	144
6.2.2 Pushing their agendas: Individual party emphasis of issue dimensions and subtopics.....	150
6.2.3 Synopsis.....	160
6.3 Contested positions: Policy frames in electoral competition.....	161
6.3.1 Liberal or restrictive? The overall direction of electoral politicization.....	162
6.3.2 Promoting policies: Party preferences and inter-party frame-proximity.....	166
6.3.3 Synopsis.....	175
6.4 Conclusion: Migration and ethnic relations as a structuring conflict...	177
7. Closing the circle: Drivers of electoral politicization	180
7.1 Societal inputs to electoral politicization	180
7.2 Internal party competition factors	185
7.2.1 Cleavage structures and party ideologies	185
7.2.2 Party strength, coalition options and cabinet composition	187
7.3 The role of the campaign channel: Programmatic vs. day-to-day campaign communication	194
8. Conclusion: Campaigning in radical right heartland	197
References	208
Appendices	234