

Table of contents

Chapter 1: Introduction	1
1. Infinitives in brief	1
2. Restructuring—its significance in history	5
2.1. The class of restructuring predicates	6
2.2. The structure of restructuring infinitives	9
2.2.1. Mono-clausal approaches	10
2.2.2. Bi-clausal approaches	11
2.3. The motivation for restructuring	14
Chapter 2: Lexical restructuring	16
1. Introduction	16
2. Case assignment in restructuring constructions	18
2.1. A-movement—basic analysis	19
2.2. Other instances of ν P-less infinitives	25
2.2.1. Unaccusative restructuring predicates	25
2.2.2. Some crosslinguistic evidence for ν P-less infinitives	31
2.3. Restructuring vs. non-restructuring	35
2.3.1. German	36
2.3.2. Japanese	46
2.4. The lack of case and bi-clausal approaches to restructuring	57
3. Tense properties of restructuring constructions	62
3.1. Infinitival tense	62
3.2. Tense vs. irrealis aspect	72
3.3. Restructuring infinitives are tenseless	79
3.4. Overt tense markers in Japanese infinitives	85
3.5. The restructuring-tense connection	91
4. Other functional projections	99
4.1. The restructuring configuration and functional projections	99
4.2. CP-properties of restructuring infinitives	101
4.2.1. Overt complementizers	102
4.2.2. Wh -specifiers	105

viii Table of contents

4.3.	Infinitival marker	109
4.4.	Negation	115
5.	Verb raising in restructuring constructions	118
5.1.	The verb raising/restructuring connection	120
5.2.	Tense dependencies	126
5.3.	Intervening heads	127
5.4.	Dislocation of restructuring complements	132
6.	Summary	135
Chapter 3: Functional restructuring		137
1.	Introduction	137
2.	The split IP parameter	139
2.1.	English vs. German	139
2.2.	German clause structure	143
3.	Motivating the lexical/functional distinction	145
3.1.	Restructuring predicates as auxiliaries	146
3.2.	Lexical/functional differences in German	155
3.2.1.	Extraposition	156
3.2.2.	The “infinitive for participle” effect	162
3.2.3.	Thematic properties	167
3.3.	Restructuring and functional structure (Cinque 2000)	176
4.	German functional constructions	182
4.1.	Modal constructions	182
4.1.1.	Some ordering issues	184
4.1.2.	Modal verbs must be raising verbs	187
4.1.2.1.	The subject starts out below the modal	188
4.1.2.2.	Passive in modal constructions	196
4.1.2.3.	Do modals assign theta roles?	203
4.1.3.	Summary	204
4.2.	Raising constructions	205
4.3.	Semi-functional constructions	215
5.	Summary	224
Chapter 4: The infinitival subject		226
1.	Introduction	226
2.	Infinitives with and without a syntactic subject	227
2.1.	Binding	229

2.1.1.	Transitive constructions	230
2.1.2.	Ditransitive constructions	233
2.2.	Semantic control properties of restructuring infinitives	236
2.2.1.	The obligatory/non-obligatory control distinction	236
2.2.2.	Restructuring infinitives involve obligatory control	241
3.	What is under control	246
3.1.	Main proposal	246
3.2.	Syntax ≠ semantics	251
3.3.	“It” anaphors	253
4.	Conclusion	263
 Chapter 5: Grades of (non-)restructuring		265
1.	Introduction	265
2.	Restructuring vs. non-restructuring	266
3.	Graded (non-)restructuring	272
3.1.	Restructuring vs. reduced non-restructuring	273
3.2.	Non-restructuring	286
3.2.1.	Relative clause pied piping	287
3.2.2.	Extrapolation vs. intraposition	291
4.	Semantic classification of infinitives	297
4.1.	Two ways to forget	298
4.2.	Factive (and propositional) infinitives	302
 Chapter 6: Summary and conclusion		308
 Appendix		317
1.	Overview	317
2.	Verb classification	318
3.	Distinguishing irrealis, propositional, factive	319
3.1.	Irrealis properties	319
3.2.	Factive, propositional	323
4.	(Non-)Restructuring properties	327
4.1.	Passive	328
4.2.	Pronoun fronting	332
4.3.	Scrambling	337
5.	Verb classifications in different languages	341

x Table of contents

5.1.	Rizzi (1976, 1982)	343
5.2.	Napoli (1981)	343
5.3.	Zagona (1982), Aissen and Perlmutter (1976, 1983)	343
5.4.	Picallo (1985)	343
5.5.	Burzio (1986)	343
5.6.	Fanselow (1989)	344
5.7.	Rutten (1991)	344
5.8.	Haider (1993)	344
5.9.	Sabel (1994/1996)	344
5.10.	Cinque (1997)	345
5.11.	Grosse (2000)	345

References	346
-------------------	------------

Index	366
--------------	------------